

1. Introduction

The diagram consists of a series of horizontal lines. A single line starts at the left edge of the grid and slopes upward to the right, intersecting several of the horizontal lines. This represents a linear relationship between two variables.
